World's Fair Commissioner Haines is regarded in Chicago as being a pretty good single-handed kicker for his own state—Nevada.

Many of the detestable cottonwood trees have been cleared out and Lombard poplars have taken their place. As an ornamental tree the poplar is way up and don't shed cotton.

Fish Commissioner Mills has succeeded in transplanting all the fish in the hatchery to the various streams and lakes throughout the State. More fish are expected in October.

Theodore Winters has imported a thoroughbred fox-hound from Kentucky. The animal is said to be from one of the best dog families in America, besides being otherwise well-known in her section.

The entertainment given last night by the Young People's Endeavor Society was a brilliant success, and the programme was well rendered. Their endeavors have never proved in vain, and they can always draw a full house.

Yesterday the State purchased through Wells, Fargo & Co., $ 00, 000 worth of U. S. 4per cent registered bonds, paying in premium thereon of $122,411.25. The interest goes into the school fund for the support of school teachers.

Drs. Lee and Brigham performed an operation on Frank Craven Monday. They removed several pieces of bone which were found resting on the brain, the result of a fracture of the skull last Winter. He is rational now and will recover.

Ex-Sheriff Williams was discharged from the management of the Childs estate yesterday by order of the Court. The charge seems to be the exorbitant use of funds belonging to the estate in rounding up and feeding the live stock through the hard Winter. Williams claims that the condition of things demanded such action on his part and is ready to prove that the outlay was warranted.

However careful one may be in selecting meats it always remains with the butcher to allow them the opportunity. The late hard winter caused a rapid decline in fine beef and lambs but some Nevada cattlemen were fortunate enough to be well supplied for their own shops. M. C. Gardner Jr. is one of them and is prepared to allow his meats to be put to the test. j81w

A NOVEL INVENTION.

A Contrivance for Ascending the Lake Flume.

W. A. Ramson, of Carlin, Nev., arrived in this city with a machine which he claims will navigate up any portion of the Carson and Tahoe Lumber Company's flume. On being interviewed by an APPEAL representative, Mr. Ramson said:

"I have not experimented with the machine as yet, but as this particular flume affords the best opportunity for a trial, I concluded to bring it here. I have been working on it at odd times for the past year, and completed, or rather perfected it, nearly two weeks ago."

Mr. Ramson then showed the reporter the machine and explained its workings. He said:

"As you can see, the affair is about seven feet long one foot in height and two feet and a half in width. It is made as light and strong as possible, and weighs a fraction over 68 pounds. Running the entire length of the bed is a hollow screw fifteen inches in diameter. The water rushing by this screw is bound to make it revolve, and with cogged connections to cogged drive wheels 24 inches in diameter running on a cogged rail or track, the motive power is complete, and the thing bound to ascend."

"How much of an angle can you overcome with your device?" asked the reporter.

"Well, I think 45 or 50 degrees will be the maximum, as between that and perpendicular there is not much increase in the speed with which water falls. Of course you know that the steeper the ascent the more force has the water to generate the extra power necessary to overcome the effect of gravitation. It is easy then to perceive that the machine will mount at the same rate of speed on a gentle or abrupt decline."

"Descending, however, will just consist of rolling down hill with the machinery at rest."

"How fast do you expect to ascend the flume?"

"With this particular one I expect to make the ascent from the foot of the flume near Carson to the Summit in a little more than an hour, though the gearing may be so arranged as to make better time. I expect the flume wagon, as I have christened it, to carry myself, a few pounds of provisions mail or any other small articles—about 200 pounds besides the weight of the machine."

Mr. Ramson has applied for a patent, and has already been offered $15,000 for a half interest. He will give the affair a trial this evening shortly after 6 o'clock, when fluming operations are suspended for the night.

Mr. Ramson has 100 feet of cogged track with him, which he will temporarily adjust to the flume for the trial trip. The novel device will be on exhibition at Raycraft's livery stable all day tomorrow.
